Future Developments is a collection of ~~13~~ 14 15 artists (maybe more, you just never know) whose work will be employed to create an ad hoc sequence of distinct but relatively related exhibitions to build the whole of the exhibition. This ever-changing show, with a new iteration every two weeks or so (depending on how I feel), will include several artists previously exhibited at the gallery; a former undergraduate classmate of yours truly; someone with whom I share a birthday; a past exhibitor at Art of This; and two artists I have yet to meet in person. To keep you on your toes, as they say, there may even be some surprises, cameos, guest appearances, that sort of thing. And every Saturday at 4, please join us for Happy Hour on the Patio, seriously, we have nice chairs.

Future Developments, iteration #5, finally gives us the opportunity to view work by JJ PEET. A one-time classmate of this guy, yes, that's me, at the University of Minnesota, PEET presents a new ceramic work completed in a Mahtomedi barn, as well as a projected animation that takes over the back gallery (sorry for the mess). Back in the mix are Shawn Kuruneru's ink stainings, Alicia Gibson's ecstatic parties, Lander Burton's coats and lapels, and Bianca Beck's scary dreams. Michael Mott has a curious new piece as well, rope and wood, it just doesn't get any simpler than that. And the Spangler piece is still around too, as my doctor has prescribed no heavy lifting for 6-8 weeks. Upcoming iterations and events will be posted on the website and via email and social media.

Next and final Future Development event – Saturday, August 6, 7-9pm

Thanks for coming!
