September 22– November 4, 2012

Announcing Make Hay, the inaugural exhibition for David Petersen Gallery. For its first exhibition, the gallery will feature the artwork of Los Angeles-based artists Amanda Ross-Ho, Erik Frydenborg, and Gala Porrás-Kim, Brooklyn-based Jaya Howey, and Scott NedreLOW and GraceMarie Keaton from Minneapolis.

The exhibition Make Hay presents six distinctive approaches to recontextualizing images, objects and language. Working through their own personal histories, alter egos, and/or idiosyncratic processes, the diverse works of Make Hay present a disjointed yet productive dialogue related to the navigation of contemporary culture, both personally and collectively. With drawing, painting, photography and sculpture, the artists of Make Hay, as the title suggests, take advantage of the limitless possibilities at their disposal to disrupt accepted meanings and bring about new ones.
